harbor mind

GUIDE

Your first session

Starting therapy can feel like a big step. Here's what to expect, so you can walk in (or log on) feeling prepared.

Before you arrive

- Fill out the short intake form we email you. It takes about 10 minutes.
- For online sessions, find a private, quiet spot and test your camera and sound.
- Jot down a few notes on what's been hard lately and what you'd like to change.

During the session

- Your therapist will ask what brought you in and what you hope to get out of therapy.
- You decide how much to share. There's no pressure to tell everything at once.
- You'll talk about confidentiality and how sessions will work going forward.

After the session

- Notice how you feel. Tiredness or relief are both normal.
- Ask yourself: did I feel heard? Could I see myself talking to this person again?

Not the right fit? That's okay. Tell us and we'll match you with someone else on our team, no awkwardness.